

Fernando P. Carvalho is Principal Investigator at the Radiological Protection and Safety Laboratory, Instituto Superior Técnico, Lisbon University, Portugal. He was Head of the IAEA Marine Environmental Studies Laboratory in Monaco. He performs research in the field of radiological protection and environmental radioactivity for many years and in the last 15 years has been in charge of the environmental radioactivity monitoring of old uranium mining and milling sites in Portugal and carried several international missions for advising radiation protection in uranium and other NORM mining sites.

